

Home Sharing is an option where adults with diverse-abilities have the opportunity share a home with someone who offers support when needed. Home sharing provides individuals with a safe and secure environment, and sense of belonging with their chosen family.

Pathways is currently looking for a home share provider who enjoys creating a peaceful and predictable living environment.

A gentleman in his late 50's is looking for a tranquil setting to return to after his busy day. He is away from home 8:30 until 3:30 Monday through Friday. When he returns home he appreciates a quiet environment. He enjoys listening to music, assisting with cooking, going out for coffee, and visiting with his family. He is seeking a home share provider who is comfortable with a structured predictable routine. This gentleman has lived happily with wonderful home share providers for the last 20 years. A gradual transition between living situations and time to establish a comfortable trusting relationship will be required.

Contracted Home Share Providers can be individuals, couples or families, and can live in owned or rented premises. We recruit, train and provide support to Home Share Providers to ensure quality home environments that meet the needs and goals of individuals. Much consideration is placed upon identifying a match in lifestyles, personalities and interests to ensure a long-term fit.

Home share providers must be approved based on the standards set by Community Living BC (CLBC). This includes completing a home study, reference letters, medical disclosures and a satisfactory criminal record search.
